LINKBYNET announces the acquisition of Treeptik

First operation of external growth of the French specialist of outsourcing and cloud hosting after its fundraising of 50 million euros.

Paris, September 18, 2017 - LINKBYNET, a French provider of outsourcing and cloud hosting solutions, announced today the acquisition of Treetik, a specialized consulting and development company, DevOps and Docker. LINKBYNET, which has achieved organic revenue growth of more than 10% in 2016, expects to accelerate its development by 20% in 2017.

This acquisition is LINKBYNET's first external growth operation since Keensight Capital raised its 50 million € fund in 2016. This growth strategy is based on 4 areas: security, DevOps, software and cloud. The acquisition of Treetik is part of the "DevOps" segment.

"The excellence of Treetik in the DevOps and Docker domains will be added to the catalog of our services to complete our offer. From the training of the teams to the support of their projects up to the hosting of their critical platforms, we can now offer our customers an accompaniment on the agile methods and DevOps they choose for their projects. digitalization and cloud transformation," comments Stéphane Aisenberg, President of LINKBYNET.

"Joining a structure as dynamic and successful as LINKBYNET is a great pride for our team. This is the recognition of the excellence we have pursued since our creation," adds Arnaud Lambert, co-founder of Treetik

This acquisition places LINKBYNET as a key player in the cloud transformation of large companies both in France and abroad where the company generates a significant and growing proportion of its turnover. By adding consulting expertise to outsourcing, cloud and security, LINKBYNET is now able to support its clients in all phases of their critical projects.
